Prairie Dogs in Central Park

FORTY COLONISTS SETTLE A TOWN—HOW THEY WORKED

An addition to the zoological collection at the Arsenal in Central Park, New York, has just been completed in the rear of the Arsenal near the bear pit that is being cut out of the rock, and is attracting much attention The new feature is a little strip of land thirty feet long and nearly half as wide inclosed with an iron railing radiant with a new coat of green paint At first the visitor may see nothing in the inclosure but the bare yellow earth, thrown into rough little mounds in several places If he lingers a moment several lumps of what appeared the soil will spring into life and presently a whole colony of prairie dogs will issue out from their underground dwellings and frolic around At any unusual sound they whisk into their holes in an instant and are out of sight The site of the Prairie Dog Town was finished last Sunday It was prepared by digging a basin the sides and bottom of which were lined with concrete and the whole then filled up with fifteen feet of earth When the soil had settled it was ready for the colony to enter into possession and the green railing prevented the colonists from straying outside of the town limits There are forty of the dogs owned by the Park authorities They were obtained from Nebraska last spring and have been kept in a cage in one of the buildings until Dr Conklin, superintendent of the menagerie, could prepare better quarters for them

Dr Conklin told the Park Commissioners that the best way to care for the animals was to make for them a home as nearly like their own as possible and that it could be done at small expense When the dogs were turned into the inclosure they frisked about the space a few moments in evident surprise Then they gathered in a knot for consultation in which one fat old patriarch seemed to assume the leadership They grasped the situation and determined to make the best of it. The old dog followed by six other stout dogs selected a central spot in the inclosure and began to dig with his forepaws until in a minute or two his head was out of sight. He then stepped aside and gravely sat on his haunches while another dog began digging in the hole thus started. The remaining five dogs stood in a row, behind the one that was digging while the unoccupied dogs kept together a short distance away. As the dirt was thrown up from the hole the dog that was next to the one digging gathered it in his paws and threw it back further to those behind. In a short time the first dog was out of sight. He then stopped and took his position last in the row and the next one began digging. The foreman continued to watch the operations quietly or to inspect the progress of the work at short intervals. It did not take long before the whole six were down in the ground Then the workmen were reinforced by another detatchment until finally the forty dogs had disappeared with the exception of the old one who stood outside Presently there was a movement of the earth at a distance of fifteen feet A dog's head appeared and the subterranean workmen all filed out of the gallery which they had made.

The dogs seemed highly pleased with the result of their work and after the foreman of the work had inspected the tunnel several times the colony then divided into groups each group selecting a spot and going to work to burrow on its own account Five of them with the old dog continued to work at the first burrow During the afternoon each of the groups made its own home underground and they all went to rest in these holes at night.

Yesterday they were busy rounding out their holes and carrying in large quantities of grass which were given them to line the passages Crowds of visitors watch the busy workers The animals are slightly smaller than a woodchuck They live socially together and never appear to quarrel Occasionally they utter a low, sharp yelp It is said that on the prairies owls and rattlesnakes often make quarters in their burrows

"They are intelligent, interesting little creatures and quite harmless," said Dr Conklin yesterday "That old gray fellow seems to be a kind of leader among them The first hole that they dug, in which he lives, is the largest and seems to be a sort of city hall where they all assemble at times The holes probably go down about fifteen feet where they are stopped by the concrete The dogs will live out here comfortably all winter Their holes will be snug and warm and they are not troubled with a chill."

The Stallion Race

The event of the turf season at Boston, is to take place at the Mystic Park on Wednesday, and it promises to be a very interesting event, says the Post It is the race for the Spirit of the Times cup, open to all stallions who have never beaten 2 20 The cup is valued at $1,000 and the added stakes amount to $7,125, including the $3,000 guaranteed by certain gentlemen of this city to secure the race here The representatives of seven horses paid all the instalments of the entrance, and it is highly probable that that will be the number of starters, although they may be one less

The entries are King Almont record 2 21¼ Montgomery 2 21½, King Wilkes 2 22¼ Almont Gift 2 27¼ Westmont 2 24 Don Carlos 2 23¼ Pilot Knox, 2 21

Of these Westmont, Don Carlos and Pilot Knox have trotted in the central circuit during the last few weeks the latter beating such good ones as Judge Davis Harry Roberts Stephen S and Kitti Ishler Several of the stallions have been at the Mystic for some time past taking their regular work and on several pleasant mornings there has been quite an attendance of gentlemen interested in horse flesh to witness their preparatory exercis

Pilot Knox is an undoubted favorite at present, and those who saw Bowen handle him at the recent meetings at both places have abundant reasons for their confidence There will be a considerable New York contingent here on Wednesday and they are liable to back King Wilkes as a winner If Mr Conklin thinks well of him on the day of the race he and his friends will make things lively Montgomery is well thought of and his friends say it will be no easy matter to beat him Don Carlos has done more work on the turf than any of his competitors in this race and can stand any amount of it Irving Golden, his trainer and driver, thinks well of him, and it won't be his fault if he doesn't go to the wire first King Almont is another good horse, and his driver A J Feek is well able to get all the speed out of him possible

Horace Willis has been looking after the track, and it will be in as good order as it is possible to have it, and with good weather on Wednesday a large crowd and plenty of sport may be expected

Arrival of Madame Judic

THE FRENCH ACTRESS PLEASED WITH NEW YORK AND ENTHUSIASTIC OVER HER PROSPECTS

A large number of people had gathered on the French Line pier, Saturday to welcome Madame Judic when the steamer St Simon arrived says the New York Tribune When they saw the actress standing on the deck with Maurice Grau and one or two intimate friends who had gone down the bay to meet her, they shouted their welcome and waved their hats and handkerchiefs As the actress tripped down the gangway in her natty travelling dress, looking as though her long and rough voyage had not been unpleasant, there was a profusion of handshaking and embraces of true Gallic fervor Then came the ordeal of the Custom House and a short time afterward Madame Judic was in her rooms at the Hoffman House Here after a short rest, she chatted to half a dozen visitors She is a dark, lustrous-eyed well preserved woman In manner she is quiet, almost to the point of being subdued After commenting with serio-comic reflections of horror on the wretched voyage she had had, she spoke with enthusiasm of her first impressions of New York

"Everything seems so bright and cheerful," said she, "that I could almost imagine myself in dear Paris It is not like London, where I was so sad under those dark skies The people, too, seem to me more vivacious than the English But of course, I only had a glimpse of everything as I passed through the streets "

"You have been ill, have you not?"

"Yes, indeed, I was ill for some time, but I am quite well now and would not put off my debut for the world You do not know how anxious I am, but I feel sure I shall succeed If you do not like me at first I will make you like me before I leave you Yes, that is so,' with an emphatic little nod, ' that is what I had to do with my Parisians At first they would not listen to me, but from a little thing only so high'—and she put her dimpled little hand about two feet from the floor— I made up my mind to be an actress and to succeed You know I was baptized by an actor as an actress and so I had to be one He told me to grow, study and make my debut and I have done all three, have I not?"

"What do you consider your greatest success?" was asked

"I hardly know what to say," was the smiling answer, "for, to tell the truth, I have been successful in so many pieces that it is hard to make up my mind, but I have perhaps been more praised for 'Lili' than for any of my creations, In that play, you know, I am first a young girl, then my own grandmother, and then in the last act my own granddaughter 'Nitouche,' too, I am fond of, and Niniche is the part I like the least of all "

"I suppose you have brought over some beautiful dresses?"

"Oh, my dresses!" clasping her hands ecstatically. "Wait till you see my dresses! I think Madame Roderigues has eclipsed herself I made up my mind that nothing could be too good for Americans. The handsomest of them all is, I think, that which I wear in 'La Femme a Papa' I have brought my harp with me, too," she added; "you know I play on it in 'M'lle, Nitouche,' the play which your Miss Lotta has had adapted to herself, and in which I understand she plays the drum I think a harp is more musical than a drum, don't you?"

Then the actress broke off into lamentations over her recollection of the fact that some of her fellow travellers had made her nervous as to her success. "They told me I should not be understood," said she; "that my style was not broad enough for America; but I feel that cannot be true. Mr. Grau and all my friends assure me that an American audience is wonderfully like a Parisian one If that is so, I have no fear "

Madame Judic followed her visitors to the door to say good by, clasping in her arms her little skye terrier which has grown gray with age and is blind in one eye "Madame Judic will make her first appearance Thursday in "M'lle Nitouche" and will follow it with "Lili," "La Femme a Papa," "Ma Roussotte" "La Cosaque" and "Les Charbonniers" She will also play "Les Divorcons," the only piece she ever played at the Palais Royal when she left the Varietes, where all her successes have been made to play comedy pure and simple She will appear in only twenty four performances and will then travel over the country as far as San Francisco and New Orleans going also to Mexico

Around the World on a Wheel

A SPECTACLE THAT MAKES THE ASIATICS STARE—DARING UNDERTAKING OF A BICYCLIST

Thomas Stevens, the bicyclist traveller has arrived at Tabreez Persia He writes that the natives are astonished beyond measure at his bicycle and think only an Englishman able to ride one He is requested to ride before all the prominent men in the cities he passes through At Angora Yuzgot and Sivas, Asiatic Turkey a guard of Zaptiehs was necessary to protect him from the crush of people pressing forward to see him He travels alone and has been attacked by robbers only once That time he turned the tables on them

Mr Stevens is travelling under the auspices of the Outing Magazine The publishers pay the expenses of the journey and he is writing for them a series of a dozen or more papers which will be illustrated with engravings made from sketches and photographs from along the route

In personal appearance the bicyclist is somewhat below the average height but of substantial build, with broad shoulders and strong firm and muscles He was born in Great Berkhamstead, Hertfordshire England on Christmas 1855 He is unmarried and his father and mother are both alive and at present are living near Kansas City Missouri He came over to the United States in 1871 landed at New York city and went at once to Missouri where he had a brother living Four years ago he emigrated to Wyoming territory and was in the employ of the Union Pacific railroad rolling mills Having a natural love for adventure and desiring to write up the journey for some magazine or paper, Mr Stevens contemplated making a bicycle trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic and went to San Francisco, and there began to prepare for the journey After becoming a fairly good rider he started upon this journey and arrived at Boston some time last March

While in Boston Mr Stevens decided to continue his trip around the world He then gave the reporter some of the details of the trip which he has so far accomplished with safety Some more of the interview is related to the proposed journey is interesting in view of the success which is attending the journey

"I understand, Mr Stevens" said the reporter, "that you have decided to make the journey around the globe on a bicycle

"Yes, or rather to complete my tour for I have already ridden about 3,000 miles of it, on my wheel, from San Francisco to Boston "

"When do you propose to start Mr Stevens"

"I shall sail on the steamer City of Chicago, from New York, on April 9 for Liverpool On my arrival at that city I shall spend several days in visiting friends The formal start will be made about May 1

"What equipment will you carry?"

"In the first place I shall take my 50 inch expert Columbia or rather it will take me I shall use the best long distance saddle shall carry a change of clothing, a light rubber coat and writing material all securely fastened to the machine I shall depend upon purchasing en route for needed supplies I shall wheel from Liverpool to Dover sail across the straits of Dover and at Calais, wheel to Paris through France and Germany to Vienna through Austria and Turkey and via the valley of the Danube to Constantinople cross over to Scutari, in Asiatic Turkey touching at Erzeroum and other points in Persia I expect to reach Teheran the capital of Persia, some time in the fall I shall probably winter at that city or at Bokhara Turkestan I hope to resume my journey early in the spring Shall wheel into the Chinese empire and attempt to go through the empire via the valley of the Yang Tse Kiang, to Shanghai I may be obliged to materially change this course for we have no authentic guide, or definite experience of travellers to work out the probable reception of the natives, or many unforeseen difficulties After crossing the Chinese empire, I shall proceed to Japan and there shall end my wheel ride, having made the entire land journey around the globe on a bicycle I shall take steamer to San Francisco and probably stop over one steamer at the Sandwich Islands"

"How long do you expect it will take you?"

"I anticipate it will require about 18 months, out of which about one year will be upon the road "

"And the wheeling distance will be—

"Nearly 10 000 miles actual wheeling, which added to about 3500 miles in crossing America, will bring the total distance on a bicycle up to over 13,000 miles

"Do you not expect to undergo hardships and privations?

"Perhaps so, but, even if they were definitely assured I should not hesitate I intend to go around the world on a bicycle and shall do so, or else as the playwrights say, 'perish in the attempt

"But suppose your bicycle gives out?

"Perhaps it may but that is the least of the supposable difficulties I rode a Standard Columbia in my transcontinental trip and the machine is substantially as strong as it ever was and the roads over the Rockies ought to be enough to wear out any ordinary machine "

"But the natives, the savages, the heathen Chinee?"

"I am not afraid of them I have had a little experience with North American Indians, and I guess the heathen of other lands are not any worse "

Blaineophobia

[Boston State.]

"Blaineophobia is one of the oldest chestnuts in Massachusetts politics. It had its origin way back in the days of 1872, and has since been a constant eyesore to that class of Pharisaical politicians in the State, which tolerates no opinion that does not emanate from its own parlor caucuses. So long ago as the winter preceding the inauguration of President Garfield, a distinguished young representative of that element in Boston political life, which places itself so high above the ordinary mortal, prepared and presented to the Young Republican Committee of that period, an elaborate statement of the stale old stuff concerning Mr. Blaine, and asked its adoption as the opinion of the committee, and that it be transmitted to President elect Garfield, and to the papers, as an expression of the committee's estimate of the public character of the man, whom Gen. Garfield had just previously announced would be called to the position of Secretary of State.

But the document was never adopted by the committee, and the discussion over the subject eventually broke up the organization. Neither that formidable arraignment of Mr. Blaine for high crimes and misdemeanors, nor that Young Republican committee has since been heard from. When Mr. Blaine was nominated for the Presidency the calumnious contents of all the big and little vials of Boston clubdom was emptied upon the head of the man whom the great Republican party of the Nation had selected without any effort on his own part, as its candidate for the Presidency, and now in these days of political quiet and comparative social and bodily comfort, the bare mention of the name of the Maine statesman sets the Boston Cleveland organs in a state of wild and impotent delirium. If this journal should advocate the hanging of tall-persons who travel upon the railways without paying their respective fares, the reception of such a monstrous proposition in the columns of the Boston press could not exceed that which has been accorded a few gentle and harmless allusions to Mr. Blaine."

A Vital Issue

[Chicago Inter Ocean.]

While the Democratic papers in the North are discussing Senator Sherman's speeches in the spirit of a "flag the issue," the Democratic papers in the South are discussing the same speeches in the spirit of men who recognize the importance of what Senator Sherman has said. They do not deny the truth of his assertions or the force of his arguments. They admit that the colored voters are disfranchised, and that the effort of the whites is directed to the perpetuation of the same system now practiced by the Southern Democrats. Some of the papers admit that this is wrong as a matter of principle, but they ask, where is the remedy?

The Greenville (Miss.) Times, the organ of the [illegible] Democracy in the shoe-string district [illegible], Miss., discusses the question presented by Senator Sherman [illegible] the Iowa Republican platform in a spirit [illegible] that will surprise some of its Northern allies. The Times is published in a district that has a Republican majority of 10,000, and yet this district is dominated by Democrats. At a recent meeting of the Republican State Executive Committee it was resolved to put no State ticket in the field. This action was taken because of the well known impossibility of securing at the polls an honest election. The Hon. John R. Lynch, Chairman of the State Committee, in commenting on the resolution, declared that if it were possible to secure a free, fair and honest vote a Republican nomination in Mississippi would be equivalent to election. He said further that popular elections in Mississippi were a thing of the past. Offices were appointed by Democratic committees and conventions, and the so-called election is no more than a matter of form. In his opinion there was no longer in Mississippi a Republican form of government.

In commenting on this speech the Greenville Times takes occasion to say that Mr. Lynch's arraignment of the Democratic party will not help along a right adjustment of the negro's relation to Mississippi politics. Conceding that the Democratic party is simply an organization of the white voters for the purpose of securing control of the Government the Times says:

"We hope that Mr. Lynch will talk as he does and always with equal good cause." That is to say, the Democrats believe that there is good cause for complaining on the part of the colored people, and that there always will be under Democratic rule.

The Times regards the Republican platform in Iowa as a reiteration of the principle emphasized by Mr. Blaine in his famous speech at Augusta after the election last fall. It regards Senator Sherman's speech as an echo of Blaine's rallying cry. The Times admits that the condition justifying Mr. Blaine's vivid picture is anomalous and noxious, but it asks, where is the remedy? How are the rights of the disfranchised colored men to be secured? Virtually admitting that the indictment is correct, the Times objects to what Mr. Blaine and Senator Sherman have said because they point out no remedy.

The Iowa Republican platform does suggest a remedy, as did Mr. Blaine, and as did Senator Sherman. They all declared that the question must be settled by securing the rights of the disfranchised colored men, and the Times seems to go this far with them, but asks, in view of the circumstances now existing, how the rights of the disfranchised men can be secured. This question, it admits, is an important one. It is not a dead issue. This organ of the red shirt Democracy concedes that Mr. Blaine did not state the question too strongly, and referring to the destruction of the political vitality of the body of negro voters says:

"Out of this condition has naturally grown the grievance and wrong which Mr. Blaine so vividly and powerfully stated. It is the fashion among Southern and Northern journals to allude to this as a "dead issue." On the contrary we think it a vital issue, one sure to arouse and enlist an earnest following. We really sympathize with those who feel this wrong; but we repeat, where is the remedy?

Had we the power, we would, in the ensuing Congress, invite the Republican leaders to propose remedial legislation. When such legislation was brought up in Congress, we would impose silence upon the Democratic members, and their acquiescence in its enactment. It would prove futile, but it would also prove to all that this is no mere "skin disease" to be cured by resolutions and rant, and that nothing but deep surgery cutting will ever reach its seat, and that its cure is beyond physic or surgery."

This is a rebuke to the Democratic organs who have attempted to drive Senator Sherman out of the field by accusing him of waving needlessly the bloody shirt. If the Times represents Democratic sentiment in Mississippi, it may well be said that Senator Sherman has struck the key note of the future political campaigns. Very naturally the Southern Democrats believe that there is no remedy, and as the evil is admitted to be as bad as he represents it the main question is how to apply the remedy. In this application of a remedy it is now evident that no assistance is to come from the Southern Democrats. The wrong is to be righted just as slavery was abolished by an aroused National sentiment.

A Ticket for Young Men

[Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Rep.)]

The preponderance of comparatively young men on the New York Republican ticket is worthy of remark. The head of the ticket is but 41 years of age, the candidate for Comptroller 31, for Attorney General, 37, and the candidates for State Treasurer and State Engineer well under 50.

An Important Fact

The remark has been frequently made that when President Cleveland came in all the offices in the country were held by the Republicans. But this was not so. First Assistant Postmaster-General Stevenson on Thursday told a Democrat who was finding fault because any Republicans are left in post offices, that fully three fourths of the postmasters in the South were Democrats under Republican rule, and he might have added that a considerable number of fourth class postmasters in the North were also Democrats. The policy of the Republicans being to accommodate the people, who generally preferred that the country post offices should be in stores, even if it involved the appointment of Democrats. No postmaster of the fourth class was removed for partisan reasons by the Republicans in the last ten years. In the departments at Washington it is notorious that a fourth of the clerks were Democrats. —Lewiston Journal.

Democratic Reformers

At the dinner of the Norfolk Club in Boston, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, who was one of the speakers, enumerated some of the Democratic reformers who have been placed in office as follows:

Higgins the alleged ballot-box stuffer and professional gambler, the postmaster at Sioux City, Iowa, convicted for violation of the Prohibitory laws. A non-partisan was removed to make room for him. Holmes, a postmaster in Mississippi, was involved in election frauds and scandals. Shannon, postmaster at Moss Point, Miss., indicted for [illegible] wilfully and feloniously conspiring with others for the evasion of the civil rights law. A postmaster has been appointed in Rhode Island who has been arrested three times in three months for violating the liquor law. In Indiana one of the latest appointees in the mail service has been conspicuous for [illegible] state officials were [illegible] in Pennsylvania, [illegible] has been promoted in the Philadelphia [illegible] who has confessed to writing a forged letter from [illegible] to [illegible] influencing the German vote in the State of Ohio last year. In Maine a man was appointed postmaster who was then in jail for defrauding the government. [illegible] of a Kentucky [illegible] the railway postal service, who had been three times arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses, being assigned to duty in New Mexico, he [illegible] stole $100 from the money order service. Jerry Malloy, who has served two terms in the workhouse, has been appointed custodian of the new public building in [illegible] at a salary of $2,000, he controls the appointment of a large number of subordinates. Thomas of Baltimore, accused of being involved in election frauds was made [illegible] inspector [illegible] man has been janitor of the Cincinnati Post Office who has served a term of three years in the penitentiary for stealing a watch. Jack Connelly of Ohio, appointed chief of the bureau of agricultural statistics, was in jail three months for stealing a promissory note, he escaped the penitentiary on the ground that the note was worthless. These, he said, were only some of the most notorious cases of mistakes, but there was a series of such.

GENERAL GRANT.

One of our contemporaries tells a story of General Grant which, whether true or not, has in it a moral worth saying. It is told in effect that Grant, while President, was frequently importuned by life insurance agents to insure his life, but always declined under the plea that if he died his family were already provided for. Very few men in the possession of fortune think that there is likely to be an end to it all, and yet in Grant's case the end came before his death, and even the fund raised for his family depends upon the solvency of the estate of a man who guaranteed the investment. There have been so many of these conspicuous cases of men who were, in their own estimation and in the general belief, beyond the reach of want, and who have yet seen their possessions take wings, that there are few who at this day will deny the usefulness of life insurance to themselves or to any one. The life insurance policy has stood so long between the family and want that the skeptic no longer flouts it, and has learned to respect the man who brings its blessings to his hearth stone.—Underwriter.

In this city, Sept. 29th, by Rev. A. B. Ladd, Mr. James A. Ritchie of Aurora and Miss Celia M. Colson of Winterport.

DIED.

In Westbrook, Sept. 12th, at the home of her mother, Mary E. Elkins, youngest daughter of widow Elmira S. Elkins, aged 15 years and ten months.

Mary was a lady of much promise, beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance, mature beyond her years, of a remarkably loving spirit that endeared her to all. She was converted and baptised last February and connected herself with the Methodist church, and she was a faithful, consistent Christian up to the time of her last sickness, when she seemed from the first to have a divine inspiration, patient in suffering, often in prayer for her unsaved associates and especially for her only sister and her sister's husband, and also for her good Christian mother, for whom she seemed to cherish an everlasting love, that the blessed Jesus would care for her. If, as she feared at times she should be taken from her and said to her at one time in my presence when the mother expressed some fear she might be left alone, "Mamma, not alone, Jesus will be with you." With a bright prospect of a happy meeting with the loved and blessed who had passed on [illegible]

He has since left the city, his life being threatened The ring leaders were four French communists, who led the mob on, shouting "Viva la France" "Viva la commune" "Down with the English and vaccination

The Chicagos Scoop the New Yorks

CHICAGO, Sept 29 Ten thousand people witnessed the opening game between the New York and Chicago ball clubs for the possession of the National pennant The crowd was evenly balanced as the visitors had hosts of admirers present many of whom had journeyed here solely to see the game and many of the leading Eastern and Western newspapers had representatives present The crowd cheered the New Yorks whenever they made a good play, but became frantic in the first and fourth innings when the Chicagoes began their run getting, and when the last man of the opposing club went out the New York club appeared on the field preceded by the First Regiment band, and immediately thereafter the Chicagos appeared under a similar escort

Both were rapturously cheered The New York Giants presented their strongest players in front, with Welch and Ewing as their battery while the Chicagos presented McCormick and Kelly, their reserve battery The crowd was so large that it stretched around the sides of the field and rules were adopted at the request of the New York nine to the effect that any hit which reached into the crowd would be counted as three bases only The Chicagos opened the game in a vigorous fashion Dalrymple flew out to first base and Gore took first base on balls Kelly made a base hit, advancing Gore to second, and both were advanced another base on a passed ball

Anson flied out to right field, Pfeffer made a three base hit Kelly and Gore coming home in the midst of terrific cheering Williamson made another base hit, bringing Pfeffer home Burns followed with another base, Williamson coming home Burns was thrown out while trying to steal second New Yorks began their run getting in the third inning, Welch making a base hit, but being forced out at second on Gerhardt's hit Gerhardt was forced out at second on Ward's strike, Ward stole second and scored on O'Rourke's base hit. Connor and Ewing both followed with base hits, bringing in O'Rourke, but Connor was put out at third when trying to steal that base

The Chicagos added two runs in the fifth on Kelly's three base hit, Anson's base hit and Pfeffer's base hit. The New Yorks made two runs in the 8th on Welch's base hit, Ward's single, Ewing's base hit and a passed ball and wild throw by Kelly. Kelly made a three baser in the 9th inning and came home on Anson's long fly to center The game abounded in very remarkable plays and was played "for blood" on both sides There was only one fielding error, that of Gerhardt, and it did not affect the result Score—Chicagos, 7 New Yorks, 4

THE ANTI-CHINESE MOVEMENT

Resolutions Passed at Seattle W. T

PORTLAND, Ore, Sept 29 A large and enthusiastic anti Chinese meeting was held last night in Seattle, W T, delegates being present from Tacoma, Newcastle, Renton, Black Diamond, Colby, Sumner, Squak and Whatcom These included representatives from many labor organizations as well as citizens not connected with any society Many speeches were delivered and each utterance that could be construed to mean the expulsion of the Chinese by peaceful means or, if necessary, by force, was received with applause Resolutions were adopted that the present excited people on the Pacific coast and the depressed condition of industries and commerce are due to and directly traceable to the persistent refusal of Congress to legislate in the interest of the people, that it is our firm and steadfast resolution to rid our territory, and if possible the United States, of the presence of Chinese labor and calling upon all citizens to aid and assist us in this great and important object, that to accomplish this end all citizens will be asked to discharge immediately all Chinese in their employ, that on the return of delegates to their respective localities they shall call mass meetings to be held Oct 3d, 1885, for the purpose of appointing committees to notify the Chinese to leave on or before Nov 1 1885 These delegates shall call mass meetings of citizens to receive the reports of said committees on Nov 6th 1885, that the delegates shall inform the committee at Seattle immediately after their respective meetings on Nov [illegible], as to what action has been taken in this great reform, that the Western Washington Congregational Association in asking for an unqualified repeal of the Chinese restriction act misrepresented the sentiment of the people of Puget Sound and the Pacific slope that in adopting the above resolutions we are guided by the conviction that the enforcement of these will eradicate the Chinese evil and we will hold ourselves not responsible for any acts of violence which may arise from non compliance with these resolutions

AMUSEMENTS

The Octoroon

The Opera House was packed full of people last evening to see the Foy Crowell Dramatic Company play the Octoroon Not a seat remained unsold while the boxes were filled with people The entertainment was rather better than on the preceding evening While the pieces can hardly be compared the acting of the actors characters throughout was much better Miss Crowell as Zoe surpassed very greatly the expectations of the audience Her impersonation was a remarkably good one and she appeared to much advantage in the death scene in the last act Messrs Clarence Bennett F P Sullivan Harry [illegible] ton and C Ed Dudley, in their respective parts, did most excellent acting The support was very good and the stage settings added much to the general effect of the presentation This afternoon at the matinee Miss Crowell will play Lady Isabel and Madam Vine in East Lynne and this evening she will appear in Fanchon the Cricket The sale already is large for both entertainments and we venture to predict that this evening if not this afternoon there will be another crowded house

The Thomas Concert

There was a constant inquiry at the Opera House yesterday for tickets for the great concert next Monday The sale of seats will open this morning at nine o clock at the box office, and from present indications, there will be a large demand We copy the following notice of Miss Emma Juch from the Providence Journal

Of Miss Emma Juch soprano what shall we say? Indeed, it is difficult to write in measured terms of this singularly gifted and accomplished artist To say that at the Wagner festival last year she fairly divided the honors with that great lyric artist, Frau Materna, is but to say that she is in more than one respect the peer of the foremost singers of the day Gifted with a voice the prevailing characteristic of which is purity, sweetness and refinement, coupled with an abundance of power Miss Juch illustrates to a remarkable extent the wide range of excellence which is within the grasp only of singers similarly endowed Her vocalization is replete with evidences of proficiency, and the general effect of her singing is to impress the hearer with the fact that she is an exceptionally great artist

Notes

The press of Eastern Maine is unanimous in praise of Miss Charlotte Thompson and her excellent company

A beautiful picture of Miss Emma Juch may be seen in the window of Warren's drug store.

Funeral Services at Winterport

The funeral services of Captain and Mrs. Isaiah Larrabee who died at Winterport, Sunday evening, occurred at their late residence in that town yesterday afternoon, The various circumstances connected with the services and especially the fact that a husband and wife devoted to each other should die at nearly the same moment made them the saddest and most touching held in the town for a long time The sermon was by Rev. A. A. Lewis and was most excellent and impressive. The services were conducted by Mr. Daniel M. Spencer, and the pall bearers were from Howard Lodge, F. & A. M., of which Capt. Larrabee was one of the first members having joined in 1854 There was an unusually large attendance at the funeral showing the high esteem in which the couple were held by the community. Beautiful floral offerings came from far and near, the profusion of flowers being very noticeable. The most prominent were two magnificent wreaths from the hot houses of F H. Moses, one bearing the letter "F" and the other "M," for "Father" and "Mother," Splendid music was rendered by the choir, Capt Larrabee's remains were dressed in black and reposed in a white casket, while those of his wife were in white and reposed in a black casket The color of their clothing was the same as that in which they were married His age was fifty-seven years while Mrs Larrabee's was forty-eight Their children, who are doubly afflicted at this time, have the sincere sympathy of their acquaintances

Vaccination

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

The Montreal vaccination riots, mentioned in the WHIG this morning were caused by the ignorant prejudice of the people. I find some in this vicinity refuse vaccination because of a fear that other diseases of the blood may be transmitted I have had considerable experience with vaccination while in country practice and a few facts learned there may be of service in quieting unnecessary fears

1st It is certain that the virus from the cow is not so likely to "take" as humanized virus as many physicians have found lately to their cost

2d Humanized virus is safe and harmless if taken from the vesicle at about the eighth day when the contents are clear like water after this pus collects which if used is liable to produce blood poisoning The large inflamed ulcers thus produced give no protection from small pox

3d A person vaccinated with pure virus may by some imprudence of [illegible] by getting cold have erysipelas supervene or a severe inflammation followed by suppuration

4 Vaccine virus however put up be [illegible] exposure to moderate heat

5th The use of dried crusts, and this from a vaccine pustule is to be severely condemned

6th An observance of these hints will render vaccinations safe and harmless

Penobscot County Cattle Show and Fair.

The Trustees, at the solicitation of many of the farmers in the vicinity of Etna, where the society held its annual Fair last year, who are anxious to display their products and live stock again this year, believing that these small Fairs held in the immediate vicinity of where the exhibits are owned and raised are much more beneficial than the large exhibits in the State, have reconsidered their vote not to hold a fair this year, and will hold a Cattle Show and Fair at Buswell's Grove, Etna, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 8 and 9. If the weather should be unfavorable the first day it will commence Thursday and continue through Saturday.

The following premiums have been offered with the express understanding that if there is not money enough taken to pay them they will be paid pro rata. The admission fee will be ten cents for each day. The admission fee is so small and no entry fee being charged, of course all exhibitors will be most willing to pay the same as others for admission. Penobscot County Grange.

Penobscot County Grange held its regular session with Union Grange, Hermon, Sept. 26. The day dawned bright and beautiful, and the patrons with their baskets, pleasant faces and hearts full of good cheer, wended their way to Town Hall, where the meeting was held and responded to the joyous welcome they received. After the opening exercises the patrons were welcomed by Bro. W. W. Cushman, responded to by Sister Emma Buswell of Mt. Etna Grange.

The forenoon was devoted to hearing reports from the several representatives of the different sub-granges, (sixteen in number,) which were very interesting, showing the good standing and prosperity of each, and that the order is growing stronger in numbers and ability; and its object is being more fully understood, and its members appreciate the grand and noble work it has done and is destined to accomplish for the agriculturist. Twenty-one candidates were instructed in the fifth degree.

After recess and refreshments, the question, "Why should farmers be educated; and how?" was opened for discussion by Bro. D. M. Hall, of Queen City Grange. The discussion was continued by several other members.

The committee presented the following programme for our next meeting with Independent Grange, Bradford, the third Saturday in October: 1, Opening exercises; 2, Address of welcome by some member of Independent Grange; 3, Response by Bro. H. A. Burr, of Queen City Grange; 4, Reading the Records; 5, Report of Granges; 6, Appointment of Committee; 7, Recess and music; 8, Call to order and music; 9, Conferring degrees; 10, Select reading by Sister Gilmore; 11, Song by Bro. Harvey and Sister Leavett, of Mystic Tie Grange; 12, Three-minute speeches; 13, Question—To what methods or processes shall the term agriculture be applied or confined; 14, closing exercises. Thanks were tendered Union Grange for their cordial reception.

FRIGHTFUL CASE

Of a Colored Man.

I contracted a fearful case of blood poison in 1883. I was treated by some of the best physicians in Atlanta. They used the old remedies of Mercury and Potash, which brought on rheumatism and impaired my digestive organs. Every joint in me was swollen and full of pain. I was in a horrible condition. When I had been given up to die, my physicians, who had seen the workings of the medicine in other cases, thought it would be a splendid time to test the virtues of Swift's Specific. When I commenced taking S. S. S. the physician said I could not live two weeks under the ordinary treatment. He commenced to give me the medicine strictly according to directions, which I continued for several months. I took nothing else, and commenced to improve from the first. Occasionally I would have a backset from imprudence. Soon the rheumatism left me, my appetite became all right, and the ulcers which the doctor said were the most frightful he had ever seen began to heal, and by the first of October, 1884, I was a well man again. I am stronger now than I ever was before. I weigh more. I have not failed to report for duty since that time, being engaged in the oil ware house of Chess-Carley Company. I have been at I still am doing some of the hardest work any man ever did, and I am ready to answer any questions that may be asked concerning this case. Swift's Specific has saved me from an early grave.

LEM McCLENDON.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18, 1885.

Lem McClendon has been in the employ of the Chess-Carley Company for some years, and I know the above statements to be true. At the time he began taking Swift's Specific he was in a terrible condition, and at my solicitation the treatment with S. S. S. was undertaken by a physician after several others had declared his case to be hopeless. [illegible]

Caution!

Consumers should not confuse our Specific with the numerous imitations, substitutes, Potash and Mercury mixtures which are gotten up to sell, not on their own merit, but on the merit of our remedy. An imitation is always a fraud and a cheat, and they thrive only as they can steal from the article imitated.

For sale by all druggists.

HARVARD FURNACE,

BANGOR, Sept. [illegible], 1885.

I have used the Harvard Furnace sold by Messrs. Pritchard & Fairbanks for one year, and am well satisfied with its performance. [illegible] I have used three or four different makes of furnaces, but consider this, in its arrangement, the Harvard, superior to any of them, as there is no need to shake it, and a fire is started [illegible] when dry. [illegible] I have never used a shaker to my fire.

WARREN LELAND,

whom everybody knows as the successful manager of the Largest Hotel Enterprises

of America, says that while a passenger on New York on board a ship going round Cape Horn, in the early years of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself of scrofulous sores, of an obstinate character, by the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failure to effect a radical cure.

Some years ago one of Mr. LELAND'S farm laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND'S direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

We have Mr. LELAND'S permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him personally either at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Broadway, 27th and 28th Streets, New York. Mr. LELAND'S extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled eradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquirers much valuable information.
